Crawford Family Professor of Religious Studies

My profound felicitations to the Sikh Human Development Foundation for your momentous aspirations and achievements. Education has always been the key to authentic selfhood, but in our rapidly developing world, the role of education has become ever so urgent. Your endowment of professional scholarships for needy students in the Punjab and neighboring Indian states is especially worthwhile at this moment in human history. I particularly admire you for promoting women in the field of education. With your gain in the vital area of educating young men and women, we create a bright future for ourselves; our community succeeds, our motherland India prospers, our world becomes a better place.

By working selflessly for the common welfare of humanity, you are indeed concretizing the vision of the Sikh Gurus. I feel elated, and wish you the very best with all your future endeavors.
